

Slavs and Tatars

Study day

14th November 2023 from 10:00 am to 18:30 pm

Relais Culture Europe, 132 Rue du Faubourg Saint-Denis, 75010 Paris, France

The project aims to study the history of language violence with a peculiar focus on specific geographies and community struggles. By studying slurs, and in particular ethnophaulisms (or disparaging remarks about an ethnonym), the project will look at how violent expressions, or derogatory words, are being shaped into linguistic local discourses. Invited researchers, curators and artists will look at visuals and philological sources as well as the practice of translation.

The day of research will start with a reading session of bibliographical references on the topic, followed by presentations and talks with the contributors.

The program is free of charge. Applications are open until 6 November via the online form.

With Patricia Couvet and Anastasia Marukhina (Pickle Bar), Deniz Kirkali, Rhoda Tchokokam and Celia Potiron (Collectif Piment), Alessandro Gallicchio, Garine Gokceyan, Jocelyne Dakhli
